BTS: Yellow Ribbon Community Impact Award

In November, 2014, Seattle Business magazine recognized BTS as one of the region's most influential community leaders for connecting job seeking veterans with mentors from the business community. Veterans and mentors commit to a six-month partnership, with the tandem meeting at least twice a month to create a search strategy, prepare for interviews and measure progress. BTS has matched more than 300 veterans with some 130 mentors, many of whom find the experience so rewarding that they return for 2nd and 3rd mentorships. The ultimate measure of success: several veterans helped by BTS have now become mentors themselves. The demand for BTS veteran mentoring services is growing as the word is spreading. Tricia's acceptance speech thanked veterans and those who still serve. She spoke of their children who have gone from kindergarten through high school having a parent away at war. "For us to give veterans a warm handshake and for those transitioning into civilian careers: support with a personal mentor .. is a way to show appreciation and to model community volunteerism."

Tricia Stromberg, Co-Founder
